excused from answering. The question was not pushed.

On the Carnegie Note.
The formal indictments voted against Mrs. Chadwick this afternoon were based on the Carnegie note for $250,000, which was made payable at the office of Andrew Carnegie in New York city, and the other upon the Carnegie note for $500,000, which was made payable at the National Bank of Commerce in New York.

Under each indictment are two counts, one charging forgery, the other uttering of forged paper.
Information of the indictments was at once wired to New York by County Prosecutor Keeler and he requested that Mrs. Chadwick be immediately re-arrested if she secured bail on the other charges hanging over her.

The examination of Iri Reynolds, treasurer and secretary of the Wade Park bank, before Referee Remington in the bankruptcy court today, failed to disclose any asset that might be secured by Receiver Loefer, appointed by the Federal court, but brought from Mr. Reynolds a reply to questions. She told him she was the illegitimate daughter of Andrew Carnegie.

Believed in Mrs. Chadwick.
Later Mr. Reynolds, in detailing his transactions with Mrs. Chadwick, said: "In all my transactions with Mrs. Chadwick I believed from what she told me that Andrew Carnegie was backing her and all her indebtedness would be paid."

He then added: "And I have not had anything yet to make me doubt it."
Mr. Reynolds was asked if he knew of Mrs. Chadwick ever having diamonds, and he replied that he had seen diamonds that had been pledged in New York, and were inventoried at $8,000. He had also seen them at the home, they were exhibited in several trunks in a box, and Mr. Reynolds caused a ripple of surprise in the courtroom when he said:

"They were as nice and pretty a lot of pearls and diamonds as you ever saw. He did not know, however, where they were now."

The witness appeared anxious to help the official in every way, and volunteered much information. One question caused him to bristle somewhat, however, and he replied he was most pathetic. He was asked how much his personal loans to her amounted to, and in trembling voice, with emotion, he said: "I am willing to tell all I know of this affair, but I'm going to stay right here in Cleveland, I'm going to stay right away. I'm going to stay here and take my medicine. I want to see the other debts paid."

Had Known Her for Years.
Mr. Reynolds said he had known Mrs. Chadwick seven or eight years, and Dr. Chadwick all his life. In detailing how he came into possession of the $500,000 note, he said: "Mrs. Chadwick called me to the house. I think it was March 5, 1902, and said she wished to invest in the name of Andrew Carnegie."

This is the package that was opened last Friday night in the presence of Mr. Reynolds, Attorney Stearns, by Attorney Andrew Keeler. The package produced in court, and Mr. Reynolds identified the Carnegie note, the mortgage deed and the copies of an alleged trust agreement.

Continuing, the witness said: "She then handed me a paper which she said was a note for $250,000. I did not know it was a note for $250,000. Mr. Reynolds would not swear to the wording, but it was to that effect."

The note was not indorsed, but he had no doubt that the alleged maker of the note was the woman. The contents of the package were identified separately by Mr. Reynolds, and at the request of the examining counsel he marked about the note with the letters "A" and "B" and the numerous lawyers interested in the case.

Tells a Business Secret.
Asked as to the other transactions subsequent to 1902, Mr. Reynolds said: "There is one. It is a little banking secret, but I am willing to tell all I know. She came to me. I think it was in 1901, and said she had $12,000 in paper payable at the National Bank of Commerce in New York. She would let her have the money she would put up United States Steel bonds in the mortgage as collateral. I consulted my attorney and with their consent loaned her the money."

The next day she brought a package which she said contained a $250,000 certificate which I was to hold in the name of Andrew Carnegie. I held these until a month ago, when in the presence of several gentlemen they were opened. They contained bonds all right, but they were not steel bonds."

When asked what they were Mr. Reynolds said: "There were five $500 bonds of the Home Telephone company of Niagara, N. Y., and six certificates of the Buckeye Fish company."

Repeated efforts on the part of Mr. Reynolds to close up the dealing with Mrs. Chadwick met with no success. He was put off time after time, yet did not lose confidence. He detailed one instance, that on May 1, 1903, he went to New York expecting to settle the entire affair. Mrs. Chadwick was in consultation with a number of lawyers, and waiting two days before he was allowed to see her.

Original Trust Agreement.
He had read the trust agreement, but had never seen the signature. Mrs. Chadwick had told him who was signatory in the package he held. He confidently believed everything would be paid, up to a week ago, and had no suspicion of anything wrong until a few days before Mr. Newton brought his suit. Then his attorney, Mr. Carver, of Boston, called at the Wade Park bank and said he understood he held some steel securities of Mrs. Chadwick's and showed him a paper signed by her right and title in Reynolds' holdings.

Several notes of $10,000 each payable to Iri Reynolds had been taken up by Mr. Reynolds. He declared they were payable out of any moneys that might have been on credit to Mrs. Chadwick, in the First National bank of Cleveland. He took $25,000 of these were paid, and in the February of March, 1904, money was placed to her credit in this bank. Mr. Reynolds thought the money came from the East to pay all these, and felt assured that when he held his suit.

He was further assured when Judge Olcott of New York came to Cleveland and was introduced to him over the telephone by Mrs. Chadwick. Judge Olcott assured him that he would relieve Mrs. Chadwick from her unenviable position. He knew Judge Olcott was a friend of Mrs. Chadwick, and he was assured by Judge Olcott he received the next day.

Cashed Bogus Check.
He last saw her November 1. She desired to go East, and had no money. He cashed a check on the Lincoln Trust company of New York. It was returned marked "account closed." He took it out of the Wade Park bank, paid it and had it in his possession. He brought the Newton debt to her attention and advised her to go East and raise the money and settle the whole affair, and he thought she went East to see Andrew Carnegie.

her. I would find a letter to Mr. Carnegie and he would settle all her indebtedness."

Saw Carnegie Check.
Witness had seen no other notes, but had seen a check which was sent to his house when he was ill. It was for $90,000 and had Andrew Carnegie's name signed to it. Whether any money was ever procured on it, he did not know.

As to the value of Mrs. Chadwick's household fittings Mr. Reynolds thought they might be worth about $20,000. He said he took a chattel mortgage about two years ago, but had never recorded it. This concluded the examination of Mr. Reynolds, and the hearing was put over until Saturday for the presence of further witnesses. "That is understood," said Mrs. Chadwick and her son, Emil, if they are not in this city by that time the examination will be put over still further.

United States District Attorney Sullivan declared tonight that he would not insist upon the personal appearance of Mr. Carnegie at the session of the Federal grand jury on Wednesday.
"It is unable to come, all that will be necessary for him to do is to submit a statement to the District Attorney in New York to the effect that his health will not permit him to travel. If he does this his sworn statement will go as far with the jury as his actual presence."

Alleged Carnegie Note.
T. K. Whitney, son of one of the stockholders of the Citizens National bank, Oberlin, today presented to the grand jury the $500,000 note with the alleged signature of Andrew Carnegie. This note is dated two days earlier than the one for $250,000, and is made payable at the National Bank of Commerce. There has been an absence of certainty as to the existence of such a note. With the possible exception of Mrs. Chadwick, Spear and Beckwith having had a glimpse of it, it had never been seen not even by Mr. Whitney himself until it was produced before the grand jury this afternoon.

The note had been placed in an envelope, which in turn was in a second envelope, and the two into a third envelope and sealed. It was a dispute between Beckwith and Spear as to the ownership of the note is understood to have arisen soon after Mrs. Chadwick had received it from the bank officials as security for money, and it was decided to put it into Whitney's possession as trustee. The latter did not know at the time that it was not genuine.

The other note for $250,000 which figured in the testimony, was made payable at Carnegie's office in New York City. The maximum penalty for the offense charged in the indictment is twenty years upon conviction.

DR. CHADWICK TALKS AGAIN.
Living Quietly in Paris and Much Worried Over Wife's Troubles.

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Dr. Leroy S. Chadwick, of Cleveland, whose wife, Cassie L. Chadwick, is held a prisoner in New York, charged with frauds of a financial nature, has been living here quietly for some time, occupying quarters in a hotel in the center of Paris, but owing to the notoriety of his wife's affairs he has observed the greatest seclusion.

Dr. Chadwick was interviewed today and consented to talk regarding the troubles of his wife, but requested that the name of the hotel, in which he is staying be withheld, owing to the notoriety of his wife's affairs.

Dr. Chadwick is somewhat beyond middle age, of slender build, and is a very pale, giving him the appearance of an invalid, which he explains is the result of a recent serious attack of Roman fever from which he is now slowly recovering.

He has not the appearance of a person accustomed to affluent surroundings, but has a keen visage and alert and rather nervous manner. He frequently reiterated that he was not a doctor, but was mainly on account of his daughter, a prepossessing girl of 19, by his former wife, and who is accompanying him.

Talked for an Hour.
The Associated Press correspondent talked for an hour with Dr. Chadwick, going over the most important features of Mrs. Chadwick's affairs and particularly mentioning the decision on the principal points in the case. His answers were given slowly and with evidence of great caution.

He is most unpleasant to me," Dr. Chadwick said, "to be interviewed under the present circumstances. It was an extreme case, and when the news of the reports concerning the case, I learn every day new features about the affair which I never knew before. I do not think it desirable to enter into details until I return to America, as there have been so many misstatements that I do not know just what the facts and what the truth is. There is no truth in the report that Mrs. Chadwick settled a large sum on me. I took no money from her."

As to Devere Woman.
Asked concerning reports that Mrs. Chadwick is in reality Lydia Devere, he answered: "The first time that I ever heard the name of Lydia Devere in this connection was when I saw it recently in the papers. Only once before had I ever heard the name Devere. That was twenty-nine years ago at a post-mortem examination at which I assisted, on a woman of that name, who was never known to me. I only recall this from a peculiar surgical feature which the post-mortem developed."

Dr. Chadwick mentioned this as clearly showing his lack of knowledge that his wife was Lydia Devere, but he declined to discuss further the circumstances of his marriage, saying it was a matter of public record and purely personal.

Questioned upon the financial aspects of his wife's affairs, Dr. Chadwick replied: "The financial matters in the case do not affect me in the least. They speak of bonds being found. I would like to know what these bonds and papers look like."

The doctor was shown a publication stating that the alleged securities embraced notes of several million dollars signed or indorsed with the name Andrew Carnegie.

Secret Marriage Denied by Brown

Story Started as a Joke by His Class Mates at Ann Arbor.

Reached the Reserve Yesterday.

Department Commander Will Hold General Inspection Today.

Will Be Entertained During the Week at a Number of Informal Social Gatherings.

CHICAGO, Dec. 12.—Max Brown, the young law student from Salt Lake City, who is attending the University of Chicago, vigorously denied the story which has recently been circulated that he was secretly married last May at Windsor, Ont., to Miss Rosemary Smith of Ann Arbor, Mich.

When seen today, Mr. Brown was indignant, and said that the story seems to have started as a joke by some of his class mates at Ann Arbor university, where he took an undergraduate course two years before entering the Chicago institution to study law.

His first intimation that such a story was going the rounds was, he says, when he saw the clippings from the papers of Detroit and Ann Arbor, in which it was stated that the parents of the girl had announced that a secret marriage between Mr. Brown and their daughter had taken place, and that the young bride had gone to spend Thanksgiving day with her husband in Chicago. Mr. Brown says that he went out a good deal with Miss Smith during the two years he attended Ann Arbor, but that such a thing as a marriage was never thought of. He says it is true that Miss Smith came to Chicago recently, and that she had seen her on that occasion, but that she is not his wife.

Parent's Statement Confusing.
When asked what he thought of the statement made in the papers which had been announced, Mr. Brown said that he did not know what to think, and that he was not sure of the facts. He said that he had seen Miss Smith, and that she had seen him, but that he was not sure of the facts. He said that he had seen Miss Smith, and that she had seen him, but that he was not sure of the facts.

He thought that probably the story originated with a young man named Spencer, who attended Ann Arbor when Mr. Brown was there, and who corresponded with several papers in that town and at Detroit. Mr. Brown says that he never saw at Windsor, which is across the river from Detroit, and is regarded as a sort of green for both the Michigan and Ohio troops, and that he was not sure of the facts.

The young fellow makes no secret about his having been good friends with Miss Rosemary, and that he had seen her considerably with her or about her having come to Chicago to pay him a visit on the 24th of November. He said that he was not sure of the facts.

Story Not Believed.
None of the many friends of Mr. Brown at the Chicago university, where he has already been a member of the law school, believed the reported marriage or the girl in question except what they have heard from the story. They were not sure of the facts.

Mr. Brown is carrying the aforesaid evidence relative to his marriage in a "good inside pocket," with the evident intention of some day ferreting out the perpetrator of the practical joke or the effort of an embryo reporter to land a "good story" in the columns of his paper.

GEN. BALDWIN AT FT. DOUGLAS

Reached the Reserve Yesterday.

Will Be Entertained During the Week at a Number of Informal Social Gatherings.

Brig.-Gen. Frank D. Baldwin, commanding the Department of the Colorado, accompanied by his aide-de-camp, Lieut. Frank Drum, arrived on the reservation yesterday and was given the usual salute due to his rank by a detail from the Twelfth and Twenty-second batteries, and was escorted into the post by the battalion of the Twenty-ninth Infantry. The battalion was in command of Capt. John E. Woodward, and upon the presenting of arms by the battalion, the usual flourish was sounded. The battalion again formed in front of the colonel's residence, when the presentation of arms was again given. The General was welcomed by the Colonel and his adjutant, Capt. John E. Modra, after which the troops were dismissed.

Gen. Baldwin will be entertained by the officers and their ladies during the week at informal dinners, card parties and the like, the main event being the hop and reception to be held at the post hall Wednesday evening.

A general inspection and review of the troops will be held today at 9:30 o'clock, the weather permitting. The formation will be in full dress, and the troops are in excellent trim, they expect to make a fine showing.

Private Herbert V. Sutton, company H, Twenty-ninth Infantry, has recently been transferred to the signal corps, United States army. He has been ordered to Benicia barracks, California, for duty, and will leave in a few days for his new station.

General prisoner Joseph M. Thomas, who has been serving a six-months' sentence at Fort Douglas, since September 26, 1904, having been convicted of the charge of larceny, has been ordered released by the department commander, the evidence having been produced that the charges were not so grave as at first thought. He was convicted of having stolen a single can of corn, by the court, but recently proved that he purchased it.

Private Frank Walsh, who deserted from company L and made his way east, was captured at Kansas City and turned over to the Fort Douglas authorities Sunday. He will be tried by a general courtmartial.

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore, when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permitted to continue, fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and need attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root the great kidney and bladder remedy is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.
Cottage St., Melrose, Mass.
Dear Sir: Ever since I was in the army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything from backache to general weakness. I was unable to do my work, and my strength and power was fast leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time. I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my urine, and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition. I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers I am, very truly yours, I. C. RICHARDSON.
Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but it promptly cures kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are—obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brick-dust or sediment in the urine, head-ache, backache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuritis, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, worn-out feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settles or has a cloudy appearance, it is evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale at drug stores the world over in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N.
